

Pro Lovell Ltd Terms and Conditions

Including: Data Protection, COVID-19 Consent, Media Consent, Cancellation Policy & Dress Policy

Purpose and Background

Pro Lovell Ltd holds information about Clients and relations, Coaches and other people involved with our activities. The company has a responsibility to look after this information properly, and to comply with the Data Protection Act. The UK Act was replaced by the EU General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) from 25th May 2018. It is likely that the GDPR will continue to form the basis of our Data Protection legislation, even once the UK has left the EU, so it is fully taken into account in this policy.

Scope

This policy applies to information relating to identifiable individuals which is held by Pro Lovell Ltd.

Our legal basis for using personal data

Everything we do with records about individuals – obtaining the information, storing it, using it, sharing it and deleting it – will have an acceptable legal basis. There are six of these:

1. Consent from the individual (or someone authorised to consent on their behalf)
2. Where it is necessary in connection with a contract between Pro Lovell Ltd and the Client.
3. Where it is necessary because of a legal obligation – if the law says you must, you must.
4. Where it is necessary in an emergency, to protect an individual's 'vital interests'.
5. Where it involves the exercise of a public function – i.e most activities of most government, local government and other public bodies.
6. Where it is necessary in our legitimate interests, as long as these are not outweighed by the interests of the individual.

Where we are basing our processing on consent we will be able to 'demonstrate' that we hold consent. This means having a record of who gave consent, when they gave it, how they gave it (e.g, on a form, verbally) and what they actually consented to.

In the case of legitimate interests we will do a balancing test, and be confident that our legitimate interests in using the data in a particular way – for example in providing our services or raising funds to support them – are not over-riden by the interests of the individual.

There may be additional considerations where we are holding information about people's racial or ethnic origin, political opinions, religious or philosophical beliefs, or trade-union membership, and also genetic data or biometric data, health data or data concerning their sex life or sexual orientation. We will legitimize the use of any of these categories of data by having the individual's explicit consent.

Data Protection Principles

Data Protection compliance is based largely on a set of principles

The six GDPR principles say that:

1. Whatever you do with people's information has to be fair and legal. This includes making sure that they know what you are doing with the information about them.
2. When you obtain information you must be clear why you are obtaining it, and must then use it only for the original purpose(s).
3. You must hold the right information for your purposes: it must be adequate, relevant and limited to what is necessary.
4. Your information must be accurate and, where necessary, up to date.
5. You must not hold information longer than necessary.
6. You must have appropriate security to prevent your information being lost, damaged, or getting into the wrong hands.

Our policy sections below reflect each of these principles in more detail.

Transparency & purposes ( Principles 1 and 2)

We will make key information available to people at the time we collect information from them. This includes:

- The identity and contacts details of the charity and the person who is responsible for Data Protection;
- The purposes we intend to use the data for and our 'legal basis' for this (see above);
- What we regard as our 'legitimate interest', if this is our basis for processing;
- Any specific recipients of the data or categories of recipients.

Other information will be made available where relevant. This includes:

- The period for which the personal data will be stored, or if that is not possible, the criteria used to determine that period;
- Details of the individual's rights, such as to request a copy of all the data held;
- The right to withdraw consent if that is the legal basis for processing (but not retrospectively);
- Whether the provision of personal data is a statutory or contractual requirement, or a requirement necessary to enter into a contract, as well as whether the data subject is obliged to provide the personal data and the possible consequences of failure to provide such data.

In both cases, we will only tell people things they won't already know. When a client registers for our services they know we will keep a record about them and their activities with us. When we use other coaches it's the same. We will therefore tell them anything that may not be entirely obvious to them. This could include things like:

- Any direct marketing that we may want to carry out (see below), or any additional purposes(s) that we might use the data for – publicity, perhaps. ('Data' can include photos, videos, CCTV, audio recordings, etc, not just written records.)

Direct Marketing

One explicit right that people have is to stop us sending them marketing material (by post, phone, or email) if they don't want it.

When we collect information from people that might be used for marketing we will say so at the time and ask them if they are happy to hear from us. The wording will be along the lines of: "We would like to keep you up to date with information about opportunities and events within Prol Lovell, and how you can support us. Please tick here to indicate which method(s) you are happy for us to use: Mail Phone Email"

These rules are only for marketing. They do not stop us from contacting people in whatever is the most convenient way to give them information about things they have already signed up to, or for other administrative purposes.

Data quality, record keeping and retention (Principles 3, 4 and 5)

Our activities will be more effective and appropriate if we have good quality records about the people we are working for and with. GDPR insists on this. We will ensure we have the information we need, but no more (it must be adequate, relevant and limited to what is necessary) and it will be as accurate as we can make it and – where necessary – kept as up to date as possible. We will not keep it longer than necessary.

We will remind our staff and any volunteers that the individual concerned has the right to see all the information recorded about them by the company. While Data Protection concerns should never prevent us from recording the information we believe we need (especially in cases relating to safeguarding or other serious misbehavior), being over-casual, rude or injudicious in an email could easily cause a major crisis for the company. This can be a useful discipline in deciding what to record and how to record it.

The company will also have a clear policy on how long to keep information. We will draw up a retention schedule, taking each type of record we hold and specifying how long we normally keep it, and our justification for this. We will set up a process for ensuring that data is deleted or destroyed routinely at the appropriate time.

Security (Principle 6)

We will take good care of the information we hold, whether on computer or on paper, and make sure that we have provided guidance and training to our staff and volunteers so that they treat the information appropriately.

In particular we will think about the risks when data is 'in transit' – either on portable devices or when it is being sent out. For example:

- If people are using their personal phone, laptop, camera or other device for the company's purposes there will be clear expectations of how they should be secured.
- When sending information, particularly by email, we will take steps to prevent confidential information being sent to the wrong person. For example by using password-protected documents and sending the password in a separate email.
- We will also take care not to disclose people's email addresses or other information inappropriately by carelessly copying in a large number of people or forwarding an email that has been copied widely.
- Information on paper will not be left lying around, and will only be taken out of a secure location when this is really necessary
- Where information is processed for us externally we will expect the external organization to be able to give us satisfactory guarantees about the security measures they take.

Responsibilities

Responsibility for compliance with Data Protection lies with the organization, not with any specific individual. The company as a whole body will be responsible to keep up to date with any developments, to check that we are complying and have the evidence to prove it, to give advice to staff and volunteers and to handle any issues such as a data breach or a Subject Access Request. The company may designate someone to be the lead person. See Appendix 1.

When we work in collaboration with other organizations we will sort out clearly (and in writing) who is responsible for what, in order that there are no Data Protection gaps.

If we engage external suppliers to handle data for us in any way, our contract will set out their responsibilities to handle data in a way that will not cause us to be in breach.

Appendix 1

Responsibility for compliance with Data Protection lies with the organization, not with any specific individual. However, The company may designate someone to lead on : keeping up to date with any developments; checking that we are complying and have the evidence to prove it; giving advice to staff and volunteers and handling any issues such as a data breach or a Subject Access Request.

The individual currently designated is: Matt Lovell, Head Coach and Director

The measures necessary to minimise the risk of the spread of the infection need to be observed by everyone.

In preparation of getting started after lockdown, Pro Lovell Ltd has:-

- Ensured the venue has been cleaned, with all hard surfaces and equipment sanitised.
- Displayed signs on site to remind everyone of the need for social distancing and thorough hygiene regimes.
- Taken supplies of sufficient soap/sanitising products and disposable hand towels to allow regular hand washing.

By returning to the Group and signing this form you are confirming that you are not considered to be clinically extremely vulnerable or need to self-isolate, acknowledging Pro Lovell Ltd has taken all reasonable steps to reduce the risks of COVID-19 and agree to the following protocols:-

1. You will ensure before each visit to a session, that you are not displaying any COVID-19 symptoms requiring self-isolation i.e. high temperature, a new persistent cough or loss of smell or taste; or living with anyone who is displaying any of these symptoms.
2. If symptoms are evident, for you or anyone in the household, you will contact Pro Lovell Ltd to let them know and you will stay at home in line with government guidelines.
3. You and your child will thoroughly wash or sanitise your hands on arrival.
4. You will endeavour to follow standard social distancing at all times possible i.e. remain at the UK Governments advised distance from others (other than your parents/carers, when applicable).
5. If you fall ill, or display any of the symptoms during your visit, you will advise somebody then return home immediately, avoiding touching anything where possible and follow advice on self-isolation.

Media Consent

At Pro Lovell Ltd we provide a range of training services.

From time to time we take photographic images (moving and still) of activities and events and use case studies which can include these images and personal data. For the purpose of advertisements, testimonials and sharing our journey, this can make it more enhanced and illustrate our media applications to make them more accessible and inspiring for our audiences.

We may have external Photographers visit our training sessions to capture images and videos of the children for advertising purposes, also for you to purchase for your own use.

By completing this form, you give us full permission to use these images in our media applications including social media posts (this may also include our printed publications: adverts; audiovisual and electronic materials; media work; display materials and any other media we may use in the future.)

The copyright of any material which is generated as a result of these photographic sessions shall be assigned and shall be the property of Pro Lovell Ltd

Cancellation Policy

You agree to provide payment for any course in full within 48hrs prior to the commencement of the course unless agreed in writing (texts accepted) directly with Pro Lovell Ltd.

Once payment has been received to undertake a block course, if you must cancel a visit to a session, please inform Pro Lovell Ltd a minimum of 48hrs prior to your session by contacting Pro Lovell Ltd directly. Missed sessions will only be added on to your next block should you provide 48hrs notice explaining why you are unable to visit. Pro Lovell Ltd holds discretion on whether to accept your reasons for missing a session.

Dress Policy

It is essential all participants be appropriately dressed for the session and it recommended that the following dress policy be adopted. sporting wear (football kit or something similar), appropriate footwear (astro trainers/football boots), shin pads (not essential for 1:1 coaching) and each participant should bring their own drink.

We will not pass the details recorded on this form on to any other organisation without your permission.
